Comments: Seems like a very sensible and sensitive plan to make ideal use of a partly used/disused brownfield site. It would be considered infill as per the local plan and would go some way to meeting the needs of those wishing to remain in the village in their dotage or adults who grew up here coming back home. Can't see a problem with this as a general small development plan and could only seeing it adding value to the overall look and feel of the village.
