Comments: I totally support this application and welcome the fact that Mr. Latham is prepared to erect a sensible sized building of good construction.

From the plans it will be no different than any other agricultural building that has been properly constructed and are visible throughout the Staffordshire Moorlands and not only enhance but fit in well with a rural environment.

I am of the opinion that it is far better to see a properly constructed agricultural building than some of (but not all) the numerous eyesore stables, sheds barns call them what you like that are all to often popping up throughout the Staffordshire Moorlands that are constructed of bits of wood, old pallets and marine board held together with tarpaulin sheeting where no planning permission is required or sought after in the first instance.

This type of building is exactly what should be erected where it will serve a valid purpose in this case agricultural use to balance against the increasing amount of residential properties that are being built and developed within the Staffordshire Moorlands countryside.
