Comments: I object to this planning application on the grounds that the applicant is an elderly man, who is activelying trying to get a back door planning approval, for a residential property for his daughter. There is know genuine need, The applicant was residing in Leek when he purchased the land, so was fully aware of the distance between his residence and the acerage, by deciding to have livestock it was his choice. Needless to say 23 acres is not sufficient land to be self efficient and generate sufficient income. By approving this application the council would give other individuals licence to aquire a few acres of land and seek planning permission. By passing this application a precedent would be set.
