Mr Ben Hurst,

Dear Mr. Hurst,

I would like to express my support for Mr J. Gibson's application for 3 corn silos. His business requires him to mix his own foodstuffs for his livestock because of financial requirements. They are the least offensive structures and are in the only viable position next to the existing buildings. Making a living in a farming environment is becoming increasingly difficult given its restricted position in Rushton.

I look directly from my kitchen windows and garden down the valley at the said silos. I appreciate the thought he has put into the construction, from an aesthetic point of view because they blend in with their surroundings; being matt green in colour not over wide or tall. I think that countryside views cannot be set in stone they are part of a living evolving environment in managing a future for a long established farming business.

If you would like to visit my home and garden you pto

would be able to make a decision for yerself,

Yours sincerely,
