To whom it may concern

I apologise for replying late due to holidays and recent information about the planning permission for 29 Newcastle road. I viewed the plans and unfortunately did not understand fully how much the proposed extension would interfere with our view from the kitchen. I initially thought that the proposal was similar to the extensions that the majority of these houses have within the street. I recently discovered that this extension is very high and very long compared to the other extensions. This would therefore mean that I would be looking upon a brick wall from my kitchen window which would darken our property and make it less appealing. It mainly concerns me because I probably would not have bought this property in the first place if next door had such a large obstruction. My main concerns are that this construction would block a large proportion of our view and totally obstruct one window and also that the construction would not fit in with the other properties which are all 100 years old now.

I have tried to contact someone to speak to regarding this today, but I was not successful, however I hope you respect my views in relation to this. The last thing I want to do is restrict my neighbours from getting their wishes to better their house as I would expect likewise back, however I believe a middle ground would be appropriate as the size of this extension is very concerning for us.

Many thanks

Alexander Jones . House owner of 31 Newcastle road
