St. Lawrence's Church Biddulph

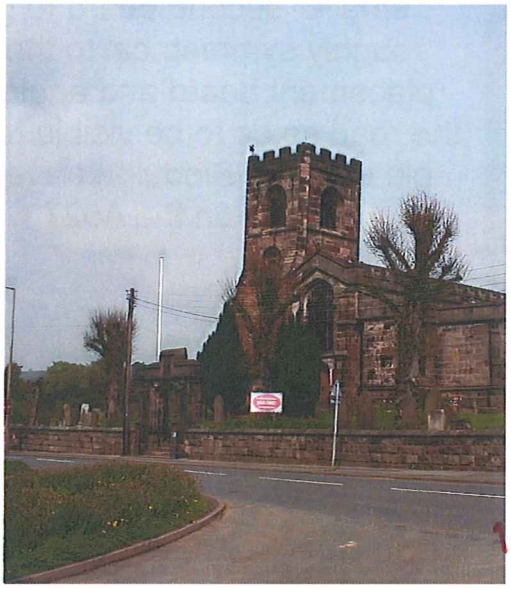

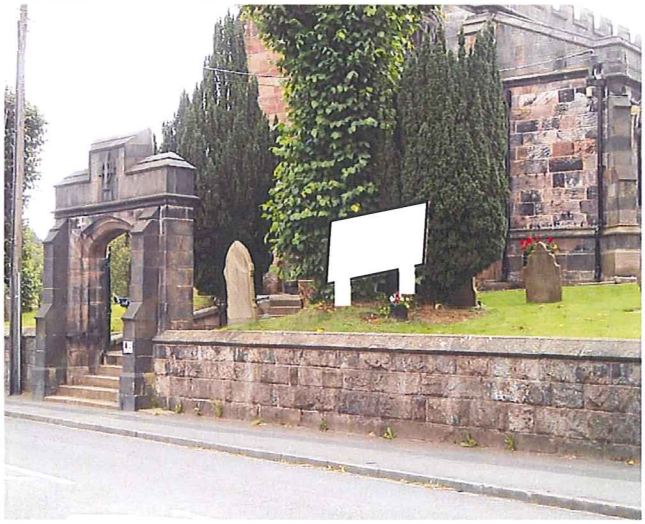

Photo showing the church with the previous noticeboard in place. A board of this size has stood in this location since anyone can remember. This board rotted and was taken down at the end of 2009

We would like to replace this board with one the same size, in the same location. It is well located, angled to the road, and clearly visible to pedestrians and traffic travelling north on the A527 out of Biddulph. However it is not at all visible to people walking/driving south into Biddulph

We explored with 3 professional sign companies the possibility of finding a new location to put a single board, visible in both directions. However due to the position of trees, gravestones and the stone archway, all 3 concluded this is not possible. For this reason we would like to replace the previous board but erect a new smaller board visible to the opposite direction

This is where we would like a new, smaller second board to go, roughly symmetrical to the replacement board and angled to the road so as to be visible to people entering Biddulph travelling south on the A527
