As people who are using the poly tunnel at rockend farm I would like to say that it is an invaluable resource to those who want to lessen the carbon footprint within the area by growing and eating their own produce. All our produce is organically looked after, with the use of a solar panel watering system that further lessens the carbon footprint.

Our grandchildren visit often, benefiting from the beauty of this small holding, they have seen newly laid chicks develop into chickens as well as day old baby goats become young goats.

They are learning the benefits of looking after the environment and how important it is to eat healthily as well as developing an understanding of where food comes from, how it is grown and how to cultivate and look after it.
