Thanks for sending these. They are clearly smaller. Whether the reduction is sufficient to satisfy the committee I think remains to be seen. Clearly the smaller you can make it the better. I think a 2 bedroom dwelling is more modest and I think more likely to find favour with the committee and is more in line with what they were clearly indicating at the meeting they would find acceptable.

As far as officers are concerned given that Members have accepted the principle of development, and are thus willing to accept, in principle some landscape and character and appearance harm simply by virtue of there being a dwelling on that site in that location, and given that we now seem to have a modest 2 bedroom workers dwelling my informal view is that I think we could now support this.
