YOUR COMMENTS ON THE CASE

With reference to my objection to the proposal at Land at Ellastone Road.

As this pole will be directly outside my farm entrance I attach further evidence which reiterates my original comments, & I object to the appeal again.

The location of the pole is on the wrong side of the junction, the opposite side of Ellastone Road is much wider and is a much safer place for such a pole. Why is consideration not being given to the opposite side rather than outside my property?

I attach a photograph of a recent accident whereby a motorist has driven over the junction, or turned too soon on a foggy night/morning and has demolished the public footpath leaving a gaping hole in my wall, whereby the cattle can escape. This can be seen at the scene of the proposed site.

As I said in my previous objection, this happens regularly and this place is not suitable for such a planning application.

Furthermore, since the accident, there has been another motorist who has driven into the bollards on the grass directly where the pole would be situated, hence the pole would be hit from a different angle. Incidentally the accident as shown in the photograph or which can be seen at the application site, is in the Police hands, as the culprit failed to own up to the accident & advise me the landowner of the damage caused or admit to the accident, and whilst we have the number plate, we are awaiting to hear from the Police for them to charge the driver.

This is not a safe and suitable place for such a mast, & requires more forethought as to its location.

The accidents are ongoing at this spot, and always have been a regular occurrence.
