Submission: Objection

Comments: Following on from our previous comments i would like to just clarify that anything that results in more traffic through Cresswell is a bad idea and i personally would of objected to the application to build 168 houses (too late now presumably) in the first place. I've recently had CID knocking on the door asking if id got cctv of the road with regards an rtc and also a young lady in tears asking the same question as somebody had caught the side of her car at the pinch point outside my property on Cresswell lane. Not only knocking her wing mirror off but also scratching her car. Not having the decency to stop. I believe (as i think someone else has previously commented) that the Farmer opposite me is unwilling to sell any land in order for highways to widen the road at the pinch point as initially planned. This revision of just traffic lights just isn't going to work safely. Pulling out of our drive is an absolute nightmare. Most people who cut through seem to think its 60 not 40!
