Comments: Addition planning issues that emphasises why the consultation period should be extended or the application rejected.

1) The original planning application did not clearly articulate the uses of a factory building with regards to helicopter manufacture, testing and flights. The proposal to manufacture helicopters which require testing in flight has introduced considerable variance to the original application beyond what would usually be considered at this stage without producing a new full planning application. The frequency of testing flights anticipated to be around 30 per day without considering the length of time in the air, the take off and return routes impacting on noise and pollution to the local communities and villages is concerning and has not been fully considered and communicated.

2) It has come to my attention that in late March 2012 the VVSM a Residence Group for Draycott commissioned a Flood report by RPS which was accepted by the Environment Agency and issued to the Local Authority Planning Department. The report clearly proved that Cresswell was within a flood-plain. This important information clearly identified the risks of certain development in the Cresswell area specifically around the Blythe Park locations. It is critical that this matter is fully examined to ensure this risk is fully examined before any development .q
