Comments: The background to this application appears to be for good reason but there is a constant mentioning that smells normally associated with animal rendering will not be present, but clearly some odours will be given off due to the nature of the work which will be carried out. The council should ensure that if any permission is granted that there is strict adherence to current legislation regarding emissions. The main concern for residents is that these odours etc would be in excess of the normal smells associated with living in rural areas.
