Submission: Objection

Comments: Under no circumstances whatsoever should this be approved. The smelling of foul dead animals blowing in the wind across our national park conservation peak district area will not only damage tourism in the area which is desperately needed in these times but will also make people physically sick with the smell. Many of our visitors and residents are vegetarians and vegans. But also the smell of foul burning animals does make many people feel incredibly sick. Those of us that live near this farm will be affected so badly that we will have to move house if this is allowed to go ahead. There is nothing environmentally friendly about this application. But most importantly it will affect all the holiday lets in the area, which in turn will effect the economy of our local town leek. This is a place of natural beauty, of conservation and we rely on tourism, which this planning will affect. Those people who are not fortunate enough to live in the national Peak park but like to come here for a walk and enjoy the countryside and surrounding areas will also be affected by this decision. Health will be effected not only physically but also peoples mental health and well being.
