Submission: Objection

Comments: Obnoxious smells from transport. Obnoxious smells from storage and process. Not only offensive to local residents, but also to the ever increasing tourism in this local area - hardly a selling point when trying to promote the natural beauty of the countryside. We already have one of the largest rendering plants in the country at Cheddleton, with all the lessons that have been learned from that, surely the beginnings of another such plant on our doorstep, would be a serious planning folly. Surely the fact there are so many of these types of processing plants in the locality, it would make justification extremely difficult.
