Good afternoon Rebecca,

With regards to this application, within the biomass boiler information request form, section g, a Dragon D330 biomass boiler is proposed and specifies a 284kw nominal output at 33kgph.

Clarification is required on the above from the manufacturer as the specification within the "emissions certificate" section g) indicates the D330 to be 330kw, which is consistent with the manufacturers website.

Additionally, the manufacturer indicates that a Dragon D240 has a burn rate of approximately 50kg per hour.

Where an appliance has a burn rate of 45.4kg or more an hour a chimney height approval will be required.

Therefore, Environmental Health cannot recommend the proposal for approval at this stage as clarification is required regarding the data above. At present it is recommended that an assessment of the chimney height will be required to ensure it is adequate for the dispersion and dilution of pollutants.

Kind regards,

Christopher Humphreys
