Dear Mrs Curley,

Today there was a big explosion in some chalets in Bradley, Alton.

Unfortunately, a lady was severely injured. Fire crews and emergency services did their best to get things under control as quickly as possible.

I wonder how different the scenario would have been had Alton Towers been open and the roads full of traffic?

How would this work should this have happened in Moneystone, with single track roads during peak season?

I think today was a stark warning of how lightly (not for the burns lady) they got off today, and the horrendous disaster that could have happened.

Please take this as a formal objection.

Yours sincerely

Sally Marjoram
