Submission: Objection

Comments: Solar panels.

Why not investigate HEP with the amount of water consumed it has to go somewhere why not through a turbine or 5?

Talking of water consumption are we to trust reports and figures from the Tawny representatives who so badly estimated the water consumption that as soon as they became operational they left the village without a supply and residents had to be provided with bottled water. Then a new water main to be installed resulting in roadworks through the village of Consall.

Perhaps the 'lodges' should have had solar panels incorporated into their original planning application.

The propane tanks are an absolute eyesore and a really inappropriate greeting to people visiting the Nature Reserve.

As residents of the area who are and will continue to be impacted by the activities of the applicant we have not been notified of any development nor consulted.

Have any planning officers visited sites with noise metering equipment to assess the noise impact of the industrial equipment proposed, bearing in mind the site is at the top of a valley and sound travels!

This seems a thoroughly ill prepared application presented more to baffle and bamboozle rather than provide easily understandable information and to comply with the conditions of original permissions.

The applicants should have known full well their requirements with regard to energy and surely cannot be allowed to put such a massive industrial plant alongside special and protected environments. The size and production capacity is so far out of kilter with the actual needs and all smacks of little by little eroding the quality of the countryside for financial gain. Is that massive capacity to back further developments? What development application will come next year?

Therefore I object to the proposed installation.
