Comments: This is nothing more than a selfish application from someone who trespasses on private land which has been picked and used for grandstanding by a local councillor who should really have other priorities. The land has never been freely accessed as long as I've known of it (50 years) but it has been consistently trespassed. I do not know the new owner, but believe he should be able to utilise his land as he sees fit for agricultural purposes without interference from others. There are dozens of other pathways nearby which can be used, this is merely a duplicitous application for political gain and selfish reasons.
