Comments: So we are now at a stage where SMD/2023/0523 now requires an EIA, surely these projects which are now totally somewhere in the region of 400 acres must be looked at on a cumulative basis. In total this area is now subjected to:

662 Battery Containers 40ft long shipping containers

141 Transformers

329 Inverters all humming away together along with all associated fan/cooling equipment

All of which have been assessed on an individual basis! How can that be when all these sites are all in close proximity of one another and with 2 sites already passed. Noise and impact assessments disregarded as not necessary. I can only hope that your Environmental Health section is well staffed as I can assure you that the local residents will continually be contacting you regarding noise and disturbance if any further applications are granted. All these applications should be deferred until considerable and accurate EIA have been carried out and further information is available on the safety of this equipment.
