Comments: The plan details, so far, failed to describe the environmental costs of the material in the batteries, such as

- (1) drought in locations of lithium mining;
- (2) carbon dioxide emissions in processing the mined materials into batteries;
- (3) significant carbon dioxide emissions due to the transportation of the materials and of the batteries from mine to processing plant, to factory, to installation site;
- (4) planning, responsibility, risk assessments for the recycling & likely disposal of the batteries following their end-of-life/usage. Who will pay for that?
