Submission: Objection

Comments: The size of this shed is in proportionate following its very limited agriculture use. Floors after a year are going to be ingrained in muck,urine, cobwebs and stains. This is vertically unused.

Proof of vermin control- the side walls were added to keep the rats in or the rats out.

Impossible on a agricultural barn to keep vermin in or out.

It would have to be air tight.

Normally vermin control display proudly their enormous catch. Rats lined up!

One jack Russel and no catches is pretty feeble attempt at convince us differently.

Agricultural storage

It seems that the only machinery used/stored in this shed is the equipment owned by JCM Estates. This is a construction company, selling and hiring heavy machinery from three places in the staffs Moorlands.

1. Bones lane, Cheddleton.
2. Wayfields, Rownall Road, Rownall.
3. Sylvesters farm, Rownall.

A construction business can not claim to be an agricultural business.
