Comments: It is clear that the Staffordshire Moorlands Planning Department is under pressure from their puppet masters and their religious devotion to the the scientifically flawed concept of Net Zero. To sanction such a wild, ill-thought-out, hare-brained scheme as putting such a large battery storage facility on greenbelt farmland is to willfully destroy yet more of our dwindling natural assets, put in danger those who live and work close to this proposed facility and quite simply to go against the principles of environmental protection. And for what? For a specious and spurious diktat from those in control and there adherence to the false assumption that 'green' energy is our future.
