Comments: I am all for the planning application I worked on the site clearance on the site for the previous owner and it was a dumping ground for all sorts to put it politely and had got most of the people who are objecting about it now moaning about what a mess it was then so in my eyes you can't please everyone having met the new owner and his sons they are lovely people very polite and keep there self's to there self's and the work they have done looks brilliant and very tidy the fence looks brilliant and tidy you are never going to please everyone and people are always going to want something to talk about in the pub but for how much the lain has just what is inkeeping any more just live and let live
