Comments: The planning committee needs to seriously consider whether a site such as this should be situated so close to residents.

In a previous application in close proximity to this one, the SMDC planning officer stated -" It must firstly be acknowledged that the site is a rural location which has a low population density. Such a location would therefore reduce the population exposure to an incident, when compared to an urban location".

So the planning officer is admitting that there is a risk of an incident but as there are not many of us it doesn't matter. Surely that cannot be right? We are not in the middle east here - all lives should be valued not just those in urban areas or where there is more than a few.
