Hello Chris,

Re. Condition 13, also ref. 12

The proposed dust extraction unit noise specification is 75dBA at 1m. this type of machinery has the potential to cause adverse noise impacts (including low frequency noise) to existing and proposed residential properties if not suitably screened and attenuated.

Further information is required on how noise from this unit will be attenuated so that there is compliance with condition 12 of the permission and to ensure this unit can be operated without causing future complaint.

We would expect this type of unit to be suitably screened and attenuated, the location detail provided is insufficient for our concerns to be addressed.

Thank You,

Denis
