Comments: Has any thought been taken in consideration of the people whose homes this will affect, what will happen should something go wrong, can you guarantee their safety? Or dont they matter. What about the effects these battery sites could have on people over time.

Would you want to live next to these and not know what affects could be or what could happen?

I moved to werrington to be in the countryside to raise my children in an environment where they can see nature at its best, seeing the buzzards and lapwings, hares not only the wildlife could be affected what about the plants we could end up losing.

Everything comes down to money and supporting the company who don't care about the people in werrington and surrounding areas, roads are busy enough as it is and having these site built increases traffic and pollution which has a knock on effect on health.
