Comments: Although I don't now live next door to Gorsty Hill Farm, I visit my parents regularly and more so in the recent months. I recently visited the farm as this is where I spent most of my childhood, the new buildings are a huge improvement in comparison to the previous delapidated ones. The wood is stored tidily in the new buildings where as before they were in large cages stored on the outskirts of the farm. The noise levels from the farm are certainly not increased compared to previous years. As I've been working mainly outside whilst visiting my parents house (The Haven) the traffic past the entrance to my parents house is no worse than in previous years considering the increase and diversity of the farms log business. After recently visiting the farm I was very surprised of the vast improvement to the buildings in comparison to the previous dilapidated buildings that I remember. Although my comments will probably not be considered, I felt strongly enough to support this application
