Comments: I have visited this site and for what the gentleman is proposing will certainly benefit the breeding of such animals that are already limited in their numbers. Should we not be backing these ventures to keep our farm animals growing in popularity. The building is not of great proportion but will certainly be effective in helping to breed these animals. It will not have a detrimental affect on any wildlife as I'm sure it will increase natural habitat of wildlife. The building itself will be in keeping of its surroundings ,
