Comments:

A major concern is the limited access via Tan House Lane and the removal of agricultural land that regularly floods, to create a hard cored car park. Tan house Lane is a single track lane, with no passing or turning spaces, and is also a well used footpath (with no pavement). The reality on the ground, with well over 100 additional car trips a day, is one of likely bottlenecks and blockages on the lane; especially at the junction with the main road it would be impractical, and potentially hazardous.
