Comments: 1) The proposed retrospective planning application is in the green belt. The green belt is there for a reason.

2) The application is for a building for agricultural purposes. At present it "houses" a large digger suitable for digging trenches and a large dumper truck. These are NOT agricultural equipment and are excessive for a property of two small fields.

3) Finally I would like to point out that Hough Farm has a large wooden storage building opening up onto their fields and not in the green belt. This should be big enough and suitable enough to accommodate any "agricultural" machinery.
