Dear Planning Application Committee

I don't think a single new build ~~development~~ selling on the side of lot. will be in keeping considering. They had a house built on the bottom side of the property. with very little room between lot and the one below, and along extension on the back of lot, and a new house on the top side will be even development of the property. and no loss on the house above, and twin the new of the surrounding houses on the other side of the road.
