Comments: I object to this plan to turn the John Munroe Independent Hospital from a C2 to a C2a. The nature of this intended use is not appropriate when there are several schools within the hospital's vicinity. The risk of housing potentially dangerous patients to the safety, both physically and mentally, of the children attending the nearby schools is one that shouldn't be tested. This is worsened by previous incidents of patients escaping and going towards the schools or local residents. I also have grandparents who live close by and are quite elderly and isolated; if a patient were to escape and flee to their residence, they would be unable to defend themselves and would be unable to achieve a prompt police response.
